

ideas

ENPROTEC is a Texas based corporation in business for the sustainable development and preservation of some of our most prized natural resources and the continual improvement of community infrastructure for future growth. Ideas are needed to solve many of the complex resource issues in our world today. An essential part of West Texas' ability to create sustainable growth lies in its ability to improve communities infrastructure and prudently draw upon its most precious natural resource—water. Our ideas for water, wastewater and civil engineering projects go beyond the technical. They focus on the communities they serve at large. We are a forward-thinking and progressive design engineering team working for the health and welfare of the people in these communities. We are providing environmental assessment and cleanup services, water development alternatives, wastewater plans and transportation infrastructure design for many municipalities and agencies across the State.

Our partnerships are meaningful. We partner with public and private clients to provide the basis for forward momentum in keeping communities supplied with the resources it needs to maintain its citizens comfortably, and offer expanding services for future growth. The basis of a partnership with ENPROTEC is to provide sound engineering solutions for our clients. Your business is our business. What's important to you is important to us. We want to become a trusted partner in providing your customers with quality water, wastewater and remediation services.

We have partnered with Market Lubbock to provide career opportunities to local, qualified professionals who take a viable and personal interest our business and in the Lubbock community.

Ideas without action are hollow. We put ideas into action. Our company is "hands-on." We go beyond traditional design and consulting taking an active part in the effective implementation and operation of systems, operator training and system evaluations to efficiently optimize infrastructure for our clients and their end-users.

SUCCESS

Our company's success is attributed to our people and their success as professionals in specialized fields. We bring together managers, scientists, geologists, engineers, lab technicians, compliance specialists, system operators and field personnel to handle an array of challenges for our clients.

Our company's success is linked to the success of our clientele who provide valuable infrastructure services to communities across the State.

And our success is supported by Market Lubbock, sponsoring the important work we do by helping us grow to meet the challenges of West Texas communities.
